Packing and Shipping:

Packaging and Shipping the T269 Projector

The T269 projector is a delicate piece of equipment that needs to be packaged and shipped with care.

Packaging

The projector is first placed in a box that is the correct size and shape for the product. The box is then filled with protective foam or other cushioning material to ensure the projector does not move or shift during shipping.

Shipping

The box is then sealed and placed into a larger box or container for shipping. The larger box is filled with additional cushioning material and labeled with the correct shipping information. For international shipping, additional documentation may be required. The package is then shipped via a reliable carrier.
